

Pollination

pollination - the process in which the male and female cells come together from the movement of pollen grains from a stamen to a pistil fertilization - when pollen transfers to the egg cell. They join and form a seed. The ovary slowly enlarges and becomes a fruit with seeds inside.

